

Mark Toth, Dojo-Cho & Head Instructor

Mark Toth began learning traditional-style Japanese martial arts at Futen Dojo (Milwaukee, WI) in 1993. In 2002, at the request of his teacher, Mr. Michael Coleman Shihan, Mr. Toth began to assume a leadership role, creating a club system (“Kobudo Club”) to promote Genbukan martial arts at Wisconsin universities. The first club was registered at Marquette University (Milwaukee). The following year (2003), Grandmaster Tanemura awarded Mr. Toth the organizational title, Group Leader. By 2004, clubs were operating at three Wisconsin universities. In 2005, Mr. Toth received the organizational title, Dojocho (School Director). For the next several years, Mr. Toth taught weekly martial arts classes at Marquette University, with occasional seminars at Marquette and other Wisconsin universities.

HONBU VISIT, 2024

Today (2025), Mr. Toth maintains his traditional school, Unryu Dojo, on his property in Landenberg, PA. He welcomes adults of any age or ability to join him on the Old Martial Way (kobudo) – a journey of self-discovery, continuous improvement, and enlightenment – guided by traditional bushi (samurai) manners and values.
